MAMMA'S ANGEL CHILD IS GOOD TO DUMB BRUTES

ZEKE SMART WAS NOT "DEEP" ENOUGH.

WHAT ARE YOU KICKING ABOUT?

There's no use talking, children, fish these days aren't what they were when I was a boy. These little fellows you find in this pond are all right, but my idea of nothing to catch is a string of them. There really are only two decent places to fish—either in the Northern lakes or along the St. Lawrence, and there is only one real sport in the whole Finn family—that's my good old friend the muskie. Guess I never told you of the last time I met a muskie face to face, did I? Well, here goes.

OLD OPIE DILLDOCK'S STORIES

(Copyright, 1910, by The Tribune Company, Chicago, Ill.)

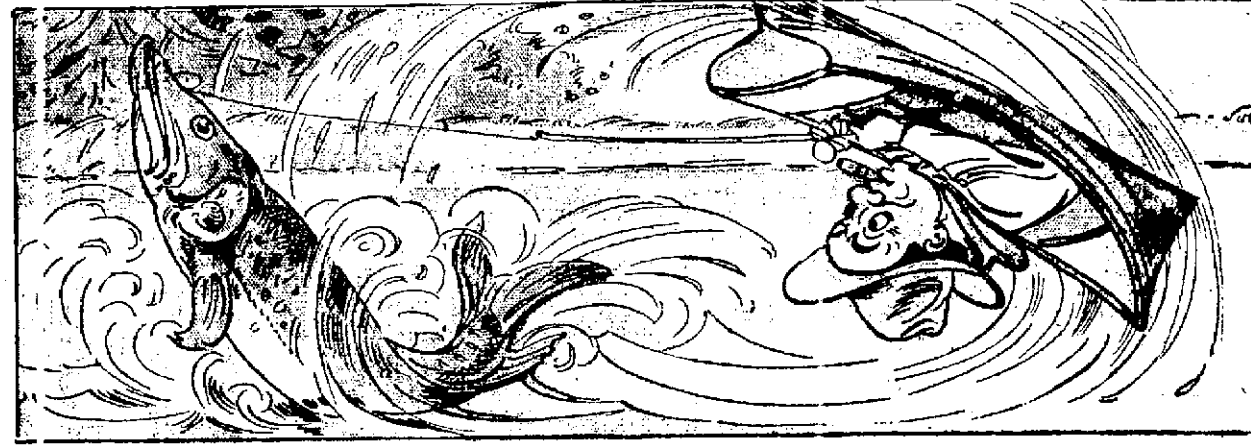

Of course you know all these Northern lake fishes are crafty and put up the gamest kind of a fight. I was up north years ago, and one bright morning I got a boat and rowed out upon the bosom of a placid lake. As I cast my hook way down in my heart I had a longing to hook a muskallonge. Those are the fish, children, with strength enough to put a whale to shame.

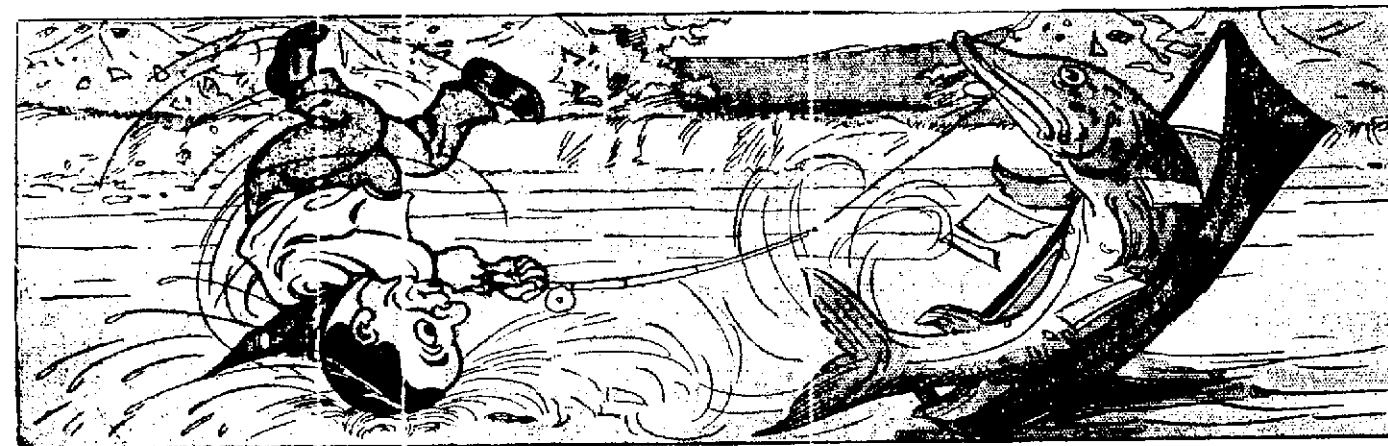

Well, I puffed my cigar and waited, slowly reeling in my line. All of a sudden, zippityzambo! along comes a muskallonge as big as a horse and as full of fight as a hornet's nest. I'm sure I heard his jaws close around the bait as he seized it, turned tail and dashed away. I played out all the line I had and then started one of the wildest races a man ever had with a ripsporting muskallonge.

He would run until he had taken up all the slack line and then—though he could have given a quick lurch and snapped the line—would stop and rest, seeming desirous of meeting me at my own game. Suddenly he turned, his great tail lashing the waters into foam, and with a dive so quick the human eye scarcely could follow it shot beneath my boat—and I'm sure I heard him chuckle.

The boat, frail craft that it was, could not stand such a furious onslaught. As the muskie shot out of the water at the stern I grasped the sides and clung on for dear life, for the boat was hurled in the air, and I had just time enough in which to catch my balance and turn a complete somersault in the boat. But old muskie didn't succeed in causing me to relinquish my hold of the rod.

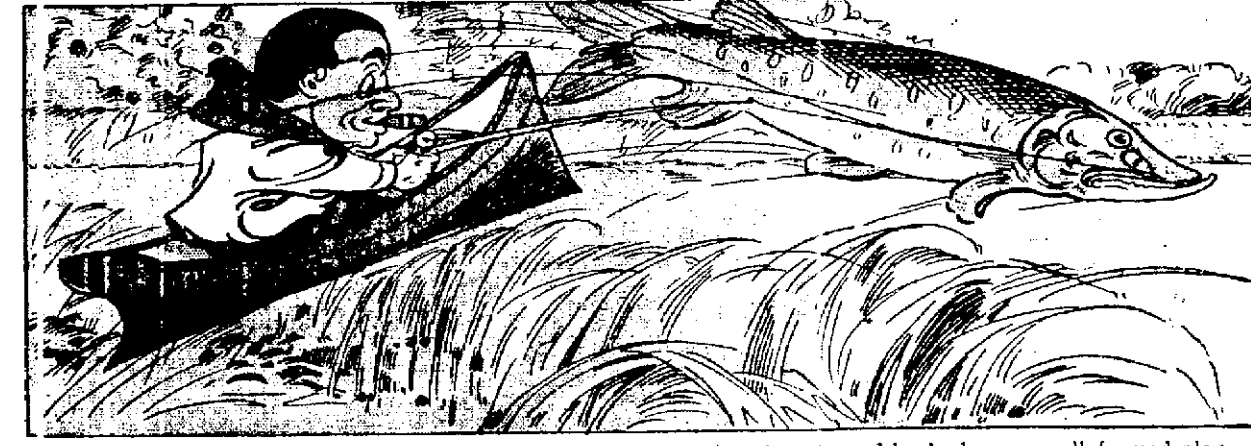

However, I did lose my grip on the sides of the boat and went floundering heels over head into the water. As I came to the surface, sputtering and not a little angry at myself for being thus made ludicrous, lo and behold, there was that muskallonge lying peacefully full length in the now righted skiff, defiance in his eyes and also a twinkle that denoted he was well satisfied with the outcome of the first round.

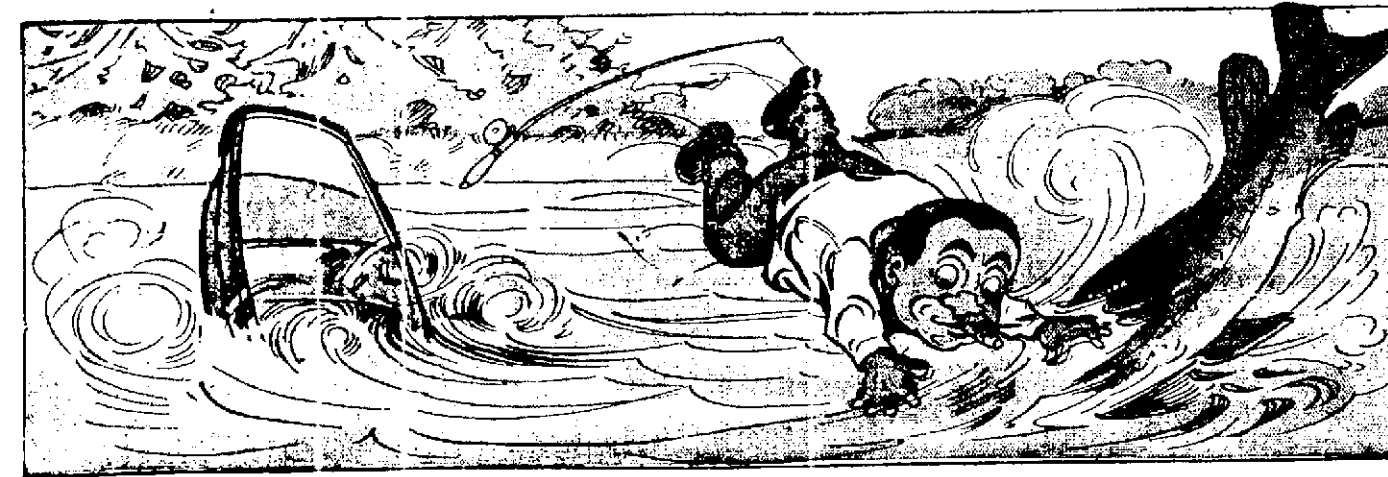

I was chagrined and embarrassed and that fish seemed to know that he was getting all the better of the argument. Calmly he flopped over and using his great tail as a paddle fairly ran away with the boat, dragging me through the water in his wake. This gave me a splendid opportunity to rest, of which I availed myself, and also to collect my thoughts and figure out a way in which to capture this great prize.

Thus it was that I hit upon a plan of action, and gathering my great strength I jumped clear out of the water and into the boat, a distance of ten feet, intending to pounce upon the fish and hold him until he was completely subdued. But he anticipated my next move, and with a spring equally as agile as mine had been he flounced out of the boat and dived beneath the surface with a resounding splash.

This time he dragged me after him with a determination that showed he had some well formed plan to frustrate me. Far down the lake he fled until he came to a mass of rushes about fifty feet wide. "He'll get tangled in those weeds," I thought, "and then I'll capture him." But as he reached the clump he soared like a bird out of the water and cleared the rushes, my boat cutting swiftly through in his wake.

Again in the open water, he started a series of dashes toward and from me, capsizing the boat and entangling me in the meshes of the line, which I was forced to relinquish. I swam about as best I could, avoiding a collision with him, in a futile effort to regain possession of the line and tackle. Far into the depths he dived and far into the depths I dived after him, but the effort was unavailing, and sadly I rose to the surface.

He rose after me, and as we came to the surface he seized the butt of my rod between his jaws and made away with it. I made up my mind to let him go, as he was too brave a specimen to be ignominiously taken. Of course, I could easily have taken one of his ears as a souvenir and thus have something now to prove to you that such a fish actually lived, but I didn't want to hurt him, for he reminded me of myself—brave, strong and unconquerable.

WASINGTON, May 28.—On Monday school once again was conducted by the members of the Civil War heroes. Veterans of the conflict will march, bands will pour forth their inspiring martial music and children will place their garlands and wreaths upon the graves of those who gave up their lives in the struggle for third state.

The call of patriotism imposes the duty upon every good American citizen to recognize the day with fitting tribute. Memorial day means more than a passing holiday. It means nearly as much as Independence Day.

Who does not look with a thrill of pride upon the gallant ranks trudging with silent steps? Who does not look upon the bent and aged forms in the file of millions for they were strong and true and strong—and remember that not so many years ago the drums of war echoed through a land that is now smiling in peace and plenty? And be it inspiration to the men and women of today to gaze upon the veterans as they march in the ceremonies of Memorial Day.

That little electric spark in the human mind known as patriotism should never become so dulled and calloused that one might look upon this duty as a mere routine duty. It is a duty without a fear of harm and without any inspiration.

Let everyone unite in celebrating the day for the North and the South and the East and the West own lands as yet once again pay tribute to the dead for as long as the horrors of war and remember that the gallant brave and patriotic of the heroes who fought and fell.

Memorial Day is not a day of commemoration for any one section or it is an American holiday and it is upon which every good American should cement again his friendship for the flag, and his fealty to his native land.

BELIEVES STANDPATTERS ARE DOOMED TO DEFEAT

Emporia Oracle Leaves Kansas Retreat Long Enough to Talk Politics.

NEW YORK, May 28.—William Allen White of Emporia, Kansas, is in New York on one of his occasional visits.

The cause of the trip—and it takes a good one to pull the insurgent editor away from Red Rocks, his comfortable home on Exchange street, the only asphalt boulevard in Emporia—is an address to the Phi Beta Kappa society at the University of Columbia.

Fresh from the center of things political, he has arrived at a few conclusions as to the complexion of the next Congress.

POWER FOR INSURGENTS

"The insurgent Senators will hold the balance of the power in the United States Senate," Congress said White.

One of the things of the long distance calls on the home phone is the "INSURGENTS EXPECT GAIN."

On the other hand the insurgent Senators expect to gain two in North Dakota and Washington, where they will help Miles Dinkins, a Representative who is a candidate for the Senate and with a loss of one of the seven they will come up for re-election this year.

POLITICIAN LOOKS LIKE HIRED MAN

Car Conductor Wants Lawyer to Mow Lawn for a Dollar.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—(The) Prophet and politician, according to the old proverb, never acquire fame in their lifetime. This is certainly the case with the experience of the late William W. Wymann, 3518 East Sixteenth street, formerly a car conductor, and now a candidate for office.

Yesterday noon, Wymann, having donned his heavy coat of mail, took off his coat and went out in his front yard with a lawn mower. He was getting along nicely, when a neighbor, who was mowing his lawn, appeared with a mow.

John Davis, a street car conductor, who lives at 1212 W. 12th, walked past the attorney's home and stopped to watch him mow. He saw Wymann, who was mowing his lawn, and he was surprised to see him. He was surprised to see him, and he was surprised to see him.

"That look sure is on the job," said Davis to himself, and then stepped up to the car conductor, and he was surprised to see him. He was surprised to see him, and he was surprised to see him.

Wymann, who was mowing his lawn, was surprised to see him. He was surprised to see him, and he was surprised to see him.

LEADERS OPPOSE RAILROAD LOAN

Chinese Write Protest in Blood and Send Paper to the Government.

Peking, May 28.—The opposition of the entry and other popular leaders in the Hunan provinces to the acceptance of the Chinese government of the 1,000,000,000 Yuan railroad loan has not diminished. On the contrary, the anti-loan sentiment regarding this subject is becoming more pronounced.

The extreme hostility was expressed in a startling manner recently. President Shu Chiao Chang of the board of negotiations, received a letter from the leader of the opposition in Hunan, protesting against the conclusion of the loan. The communication was written in the blood of the writer's seven fingers.

During the negotiations between financial groups of Great Britain, Germany and France and American there were occasional manifestations against the government in the provinces and the reaction came into a few weeks before the loan agreement was signed in Paris by the members of the International Banking Association. It is generally held that the violence organized by the people and done by the natives at Chongchun, the capital of Hunan, was influenced to a considerable degree by opposition to the acceptance of the loan. A capital and foreign direction in the construction of the Hankow railroad line, which influential personages in the province wish to have built, if at all, a Chinese capital.

At the same time, the opposition was expressed by the Chinese capital, in view of the native protests would be as well to conclude the contract as it was to wait until a year ago, when it was announced that the American financiers should be allowed to participate, lest the success of the loan, which was a triumph of the Chinese authorities, has not been made known.

BREACH HEALED; WIDOW TO MARRY

Jilted Woman, Heart Believed Broken, Will Wed Gotham Broker.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Mrs. Estelle Kohl, the beautiful and well-known widow whose heart was believed to have been broken when she was jilted by Daniel Darby Dougherty in April, 1909, will be married to a man who was once her lover, a broker, of Los Angeles and New York.

Although Mrs. Kohl says that no date has been set for the wedding, she believes that the couple will be married on June 2nd at the Fairmont Hotel.

Mrs. Kohl was at Monterey today, where it is assumed, she will make the formal announcement of her coming marriage.

It was just about a year ago that Daniel Darby Dougherty decided to marry Mrs. Kohl, who had been his lover for several years.

The wedding took place on April 13, 1909, and it was a very quiet affair. Mrs. Kohl, who had been his lover for several years, was his bride.

When it became apparent that Dougherty was unable to keep his promise, Mrs. Kohl, who had been his lover for several years, was his bride.

Mrs. Kohl declared that she had lost money to Dougherty at various times, even to her fare, under the impression that if he did not return to her, she would at least be able to get her money back.

The widow thought she found a solution of the young man's reason for marrying her. She said that when she told Dougherty that her tale of inheriting a fortune last August was a myth, he became less ardent, and finally switched his attention entirely from her.

Mr. Allison is in the brokerage business and is a member of several clubs.

Warring Guatemalans Made Docile by Music

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—(The) peaceful harmonies of his people shall not be rudely disturbed, thereby driving them to turbulent revolution, the president of Guatemala has invited Edouardo Llanusa, former conductor of the Landmark Opera Company, to come at once to the capital to take charge of the National Opera Company, which exists by virtue of its patronage and support from the Guatemalan government.

Opera in the Central American states is looked upon as the first aid to peace, and for that reason the government considers it worth while to subsidize good opera companies to amuse the people, and so long as there is a popular opera company beguiling the natives, they do not come to indulge in warfare.

RIDES 2000 MILES TO GREET HUNTER

Sturdy Sons of Abernathy in New York to Welcome Returning Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The two sturdy sons of Jack Abernathy, marshal of Oklahoma, who catch them with his bare hands, meaning to welcome an old friend of former President Roosevelt, arrived in Washington today, after having ridden from Oklahoma to Washington, a distance of 2000 miles, on horseback to welcome Roosevelt on his return home.

The boys are well and in fine spirits, while their mounts, which have carried them safely so many miles, are feeding and resting in a comfortable stable at the Navy Department last evening from Frederick.

"We are on our way to New York to meet Colonel Roosevelt," said Louis Abernathy. "Colonel Roosevelt is a fine fellow, and we think a lot of him in Oklahoma. He always comes to hunt with us when we ask him."

Asked what they were going to do when they got to New York, the boys said they were going to see Colonel Roosevelt, Louis said.

"Shake hands with him. I guess I'll say something. I don't know just what I'll say. There's a lot of things I want to say to him."

"We are not a bit tired," he added. "The people at Frederick, Md., when we left there said we would not arrive before night. We will be here several days, then we will start for New York City. Our next stop will be Baltimore, then Wilmington, Philadelphia, Newark and New York."

The boys left their home in Oklahoma about six weeks ago and have ridden the entire distance, a total of 2000 miles, in that time. They will remain in Washington for several days and will also stay in Philadelphia a day or two on their way to New York.

BUSY REDUCING YOUR FAT

Are fat folks enthusiastic about performing athletic stunts when garbed in heavy winter underclothing? No—and that's the reason. They are ready to do a lot of half a class of buttermilk and a toasted cheese? No—not really. Are they happy then, while reducing by such methods, during this weather? No—they are not exactly happy.

Some fat reducers are happy, though, during the process, but those who are not happy are not happy. They are not happy. They are not happy. They are not happy.

That's all. They got their fat tablets (made after formula of the famous Dr. Scapton's large, generously filled capsules at a cost of seventy-five cents the case from any drug store or from the makers, the Marmola Co., 238 E. 12th St., Detroit, Mich.) take one as per directions and get as thin as you want to be—just that way, without causing a wrinkle or the least internal pain.

PLAN MEETING OF BIG AMERICANS

President Taft to Greet Former Executive at Republican Political Rally.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The first meeting of President Taft and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, after Colonel Roosevelt's arrival in this country on June 18, will in all likelihood be at the convention of the League of Republican Clubs at Carnegie Hall, in this city, which will be in session June 24.

Colonel Roosevelt have accepted invitations to participate. The President will make the opening address welcoming the delegates.

President John Hays Hammond of the League had in mind the meeting of the two famous Americans when he conducted the sending out of the invitations.

This convention will be one of the greatest political rallies in New York in many years and many think that Colonel Roosevelt will receive his statement and his views on American political conditions until that time, developing a sort of "key-note" speech in which he will endorse the Taft administration and ask Republicans all over the United States to get together.

This meeting will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, which is known as the former President will deliver an address.

She was formerly represented by Attorney H. W. Bradley.

"It is not our intention to reopen any of the estate litigation," said Treat today. "We have no fault to find with the accounts kept by Louis M. Hooper, guardian of my client's estate, but as the English courts recently restored Miss Hastings to competency, it was deemed proper by her friends to have her restored to competency in the local courts."

Great Guns at the Presidio Are Worthless

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—This week we have been practicing with the big guns planted on the high bluffs back of Line Point and Fort Baker. When those great guns were laboriously hauled up the heights, and when other guns of similar caliber were installed on the Point Lobos bluffs at Fort Miley and on the Presidio bluffs at Fort Point we were told that San Francisco was well-nigh impregnable so far as an attack from sea was concerned.

Those high guns were to give a "plunging fire"—a fire from such an elevation that the shells would strike the unprotected decks of the battleships and plunge right through the rivets. There was no way of resisting this "plunging fire" unless deck armor were installed that would make the war ships unwieldy and topheavy.

But now on a sudden the ordnance experts tell us that those big guns are too high, and almost as worthless as were the dynamite guns once installed with so much fuss and then quietly taken out again. The famous "plunging fire" is not good under the latest theory. The angle at which the firing takes place is so sharp that the moving target must be hit plump and full or miss altogether, and the chances for a plump and full hit are very remote.

It is now insisted that the big guns should be placed at a very slight elevation, so there could be a raking fire, and so the chance of a hit by a ricochet shot would be even greater than the chance by the direct shot. And so the theorists vary their theories from year to year, while the money expended is very great and the poor mortals who know nothing of elevations and trajectories are stirred every time we get settled into a feeling of security and stirred again by wild alarms.

Funston Full of Fear

General Fred Funston when stationed here was a great alarmist as to the defenseless condition of San Francisco in case of an attack by a resourceful and efficient foe like the Japanese. He said we were impregnable—as to a frontal attack. No enemy would be foolish enough to send warships up against the batteries defending the Golden Gate. There was no station a fleet could take and shell San Francisco in safety.

"But there are miles and miles of coast south and north of San Francisco where the landing facilities are far better than those we found at Sihoney," said the General. "An enemy that could land 100,000 fighting men south of San Francisco, say at Half Moon bay, could come right in behind our fortifications. Where would we get 100,000 fighting men to oppose that army? We haven't them now. We would have to depend on militia and raw levies—not very stable fighters, as has been proven time and again. There is never a fort down the peninsula."

Of course there are forts down the peninsula—paper forts. The government has planned and mapped them. In theory the army defends them and their chains of redoubts. But not one is constructed; and when a man like General Funston shows our danger and the theorists now tell us our big guns are placed all wrong it can hardly be expected when combatants will sleep well at night when the next war scare comes along.

Finest Hospitals in the World

In one respect the great fire put San Francisco at the head of the world—the matter of hospitals. In no city on this earth will there be any such number of strictly modern hospital structures as we will have when the present building operations are completed.

In the first place our city and county hospital is to be right up to the mark in every respect. The money available is ample, and all modern achievements in hospital building have been taken advantage of. So there will be no public hospitals anywhere that will be superior to ours.

Then the railroad hospital was built to make it the most perfect hospital on earth. St. Mary's, the great Catholic hospital, is building near the park to outdo the railroad institution near by. The German hospital has been practically rebuilt, with a fine Class-A structure. The Adler hospital is just installed in a beautiful new building at Van Ness avenue and Broadway. The St. Francis hospital has the steel frame up for a Class-A structure at Bush and Hyde streets. Dr. McNutt is building a noble structure in Pine street on Nob Hill. The Mt. Zion hospital is also to have a great modern building. In all of these the very latest and finest ideas have been installed, so San Francisco can challenge the world for hospitals.

Too Bad About Tarpey

For the sake of sport it is too bad M. F. Tarpey has decided not to try for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His leadership of the Democratic party would have taken the old mule out of the ditch and put it on its feet. The Republicans would have had their hands full to defeat him, because of his widespread popularity, and his forcefulness in making a campaign. We would have had a fight on our hands.

THE KNAVE

Regrets That Tarpey Is Out of the Fight

Perhaps you can remember Tarpey when he first came into the fray in Alameda county. There the Democrats had a haphazard sort of organization, but they hadn't won a county official since the war. In 1882 Tarpey, who had a smelter at Melrose and a home up near Mills Seminary, took hold of the Democratic County Committee, and soon he had a fighting organization behind him. The county went for Stone-man, the Democratic nominee for Governor, and the Democrats elected Charles McClevery Sheriff and Truman H. Allen County Clerk.

That's the kind of campaigner Tarpey is, and if he had been the Democratic leader this year, with George S. Patton of Los Angeles as the candidate for United States Senator, there is no telling what might have happened. As it is, we will have Theodore Bell as the nominee for Governor, and Tom Gibbon as the candidate for United States Senator—and what's the use of going through the motion and counting up the votes. The result is known in advance.

Fair and Frolicsome Dorothy

The rounders of San Francisco are chuckling in their sleeves over young Robin Dunsunair and his elopement with Dorothy Russell. If one stuck to the tale in the local prints Dorothy would be considered quite the thing for any young man to elope with—a witching, fascinating daughter of her perennially beautiful mother, Lillian Russell.

But the truth is, if Dorothy were not the daughter of her mother she never would have cut any dash at all. In the first place she is anything but beautiful. In the second place, her talents are barely such as to get her engagements in flashy resorts like "The Ship," in Venice, Southern California, and Sandy McNaughton's "Breakers" here. And beyond all that she seems bent on following the footsteps of poor May Vobe, who wound up her California career about a year ago by falling off the stage in a cheap theater at Sacramento.

So the men about town, to whom Dorothy has long been a jest rather than a toast, are wondering how young Dunsunair ever could have left a charming and cultivated wife to go trapesing off with fair Lillian's anything but fair daughter.

Too Stenuous Opposition

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be forward in political opposition. A case in point is that of the Hayes brothers, "Red" and "Black," in San Jose. Things were going along fairly well for "Red" Hayes in his Congressional district. Nobody seemed to want to try conclusions with him. The Republican organization couldn't find a candidate.

Then somebody idly suggested that if Mayor Davidson of San Jose were re-elected he would make a formidable candidate. At once the paper published by the Hayes brothers went up in the air. It insisted that it was part of a great conspiracy to re-elect Davidson and then put him into the Congressional fight. This was hammered on day after day.

Then Davidson was re-elected. All this time he hardly had had a notion of going to Congress. He hasn't quite decided yet. But the continual ding-dong of the Hayes story got into his head. When asked yesterday if he would make the fight against "Red" Hayes, he said:

"Well, the Hayes brothers have proposed me, they have nominated me and I'm almost half decided to let them elect me."

Now Davidson would be about the hardest opponent "Red" Hayes could have. He represents Union Labor, and that vote is heavier in the Fifth district than it ever was before. So the Hayes brothers, by the fury of their fight, may have roused just the man to take that honor away from the "Red" brother.

Nearly Lost a Candidate

We came very near losing a candidate for office the other day. His petitions have been circulated. He has glad-handed his way up and down the State. His supporters express the usual confidence. His opponents have begun to take notice of him and call him names.

This week a friend found him in his office with a very serious look on his face.

"What's the matter, old man?"

"I'm thinking of getting out of this fight!"

"Why? what's up? You're going to win hands down."

"Oh, that's all right. It isn't that I'm afraid of losing."

"Then, what is it?"

"Well, it just struck me that if I stay in this fight I will not be able to see Jim Jeffries punch the head off that big coal bucket on July 4th."

An Unholy Compact.

The Bell Democrats are sloshing about with the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, endeavoring to make a trade on patronage or political jobs. The leaders of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League are Democrats in that their purpose and policies are the same as those of the Democratic rump and the Bellites are accusing Hiram Johnson and the other league candidates of stealing Bell's thunder of four years ago. The main purpose of the leaguers and the Bell Democrats is to defeat the regular Republican organization, that acknowledges President Taft as its standard bearer, and to take over the public offices and political patronage.

The assumption by the leaguers of the party designation "Republican" is a false pretense and fraud, as the leaders of the league are in cahoots with the Bellites and engaged in trades having for their object the defeat of the Republican party.

These trades go to the State offices and even to the United States Senator. The league managers and the active members of the Democratic State Central Committee are now negotiating a State ticket. This ticket involves the Democrats leaving certain offices on their State ticket—notably State Controller, Attorney-General and Surveyor-General—vacant, provided they are guaranteed a share of the patronage of these places by the league in consideration of their doing so.

The United States Senator is also to be put in trade, or left for the highest bidder, by this mesalliance of Democrats and leaguers. The game as arranged by the "United" Democracy, with Chester Rowell and Theodore A. Bell as its heavenly twins, was that the Democrats were to put up no Democrat for the "advisory" vote for United States Senator. In the event of this unholy alliance securing a majority of the Legislature they are to stand in for the election of a United States Senator. If Bell is defeated for Governor he will be a candidate for Senator. The details of the barter have not been completed, but the basis of the trade will be political jobs. It is proposed to have the Democrats in the Legislature vote for the league's candidate for Senator if the league exceeds the Democrats in representation, or vice versa.

The ticket includes the turning of the Democratic press of the State in back of Johnson, who is to share his support with Bell, the fights of the Democratic and league candidates for Governor to be made jointly wherever possible.

But the United States Senator trade may go awry. The regular Democratic organization, otherwise styled the McNab machine, does not favor this method of auction. They insist that they have a very much alive candidate for the advisory nomination for United States Senator at the August primary. This candidate is George Patton of Los Angeles, who presided over the Democratic State Convention that nominated Franklin K. Lane for Governor. He was also defeated as a Democratic candidate for Congress some years back. Patton, who by profession is a lawyer, was fairly poor at one time, but his holdings have become so valuable that he is ranked with the millionaires of Los Angeles.

The parade of the Siamese twins, the Lincoln-Roosevelt League and the Bell Democracy, probably will encounter many obstacles, and the demonstration along the line of march will include much other than applause. They will be pelted with political dead cats often rather than showered with roses by the mass of the Bourbons. The unholy compact, sought to be carried into effect by trick and device, will be thoroughly exploited before election day.

For Lieutenant-Governor.

For a time it was seemingly conceded that the nominee of the Republican party for Lieutenant-Governor would come from Southern California, probably Los Angeles. Bert Farmer, the census man of the southern city, was trotted out for this place and apparently was the fair-haired child of preference. But Farmer's candidacy appears to have flashed in the pan, for now the Republicans are talking of Assemblyman and former Speaker R. L. Beardslee of Stockton for the second place on the State ticket.

Beardslee's name was the first suggested in connection with the office of Lieutenant Governor in this campaign; then he dropped out of sight, or was no longer discussed, but now his name is well to the fore and the outlook is for his election.

Ellery's Candidacy.

Nat Ellery, who is regarded by the politicians as the candidate of the Citizens' Alliance for Governor, has become the stormy petrel of the campaign. Early in the canvass Ellery got into a scrap with Postmaster Bob Richardson and Johnny Ing of the Land Office at Sacramento because they indicated their preference for Alden Anderson for Governor. Ellery wrote to Washington, D. C., that Richardson and Ing were guilty of offensive partizanship and demanded that they be disciplined if not dismissed from office. Ellery announced that any member of the Federal brigade who dared as much as peep for any candidate other than himself would be visited with his wrath and efforts to secure his official head.

During the week just closed the "Stormy Petrel" has been exercising himself slambanging his opponents for the nomination and explaining that Engstrom, the Los Angeles and anti-labor union contractor, who has been interested in the construction of State buildings and in an reinforced concrete paving for good roads, is not financing his campaign.

Ellery's city campaign is in charge of J. J. McCarthy, formerly an active member of the "Williams Street Gang" that played both sides of the political game, as financial inducements presented themselves. McCarthy, who was a deputy in Ellery's office, has resigned that post that he may more effectively do politics for his principal. That McCarthy knows the game of practical primary politics has not been disputed and no doubt he will do his best in the cause of the candidate for whom he is acting.

The impression obtains among the politicians, however, that Ellery is merely trying to make a place for himself.

Johnson and Public Morals.

Where is Miss Louetta Smith?

Where is this unfortunate victim of the mysterious dynamite explosion at the private sanitarium conducted by Dr. Burke near Santa Rosa?

Dr. Burke was indicted by a Grand Jury for the offense and now Lou Smith and her child have disappeared as if it to the darkness.

Hiram Johnson was retained as chief of counsel for the accused Dr. Burke. Possibly he will aid in the search for Lou Smith, the unfortunate and betrayed woman, but as yet there has been no public notice of any great zeal on the part of Johnson in this connection.

Johnson from the stump talks much and fairly well of the conservation of timber and oil, but as yet has not dwelt at length on the conservation of public morals, notwithstanding the very fine opportunity presented for such a lesson in the Dr. Burke-Louetta Smith case.

But the campaign is young yet and before its finish an announcement may be made that Hiram Johnson, attorney for Dr. Burke, has temporarily abandoned his canvass for Governor to take up the trail of Louetta Smith, his client's victim, in the cause of conservation of public morals.

Proper, But Mysterious

She was registered from Washington, D. C., for a week or two at one of the three largest hotels in town. Tall, willowy of form, with youth and beauty, is she. One night in particular her dress was the cynosure of many eyes female. The gown was along princess lines, over a white silk interlining, with a deep Spanish flounce about the bottom of the skirt. Just above the top of this flounce was a wide sash of light green silk, tied with a large bow in the back, the bow resting rather low on the trained skirt. The hat was large and white, with brim rolled slightly upward and the well-defined crown encircled by pink roses of natural size and exquisite coloring. A studied sangfroid, so far as members of her own sex was concerned, was evident on her part. But she likes the company of the other sex and apparently she did not care whether they were married or not. A number of both kinds with plenty of money danced attendance on her. Did she like joy rides? Rather so. Two of these admirers asked her to go East on the same train with them. One was a married man whose wife had gone on ahead of him to London. He gallantly asked to be her escort as far as New York, she intending to go there en route to the national capital. Tickets were bought. She backed out and he went on alone. Her railroad ticket and Pullman compartment slip were redeemed at the last moment. Mr. So and So did not know the real reason why she backed out. He was the married admirer who had from the Fairmont. She went East three days later with the scion of a family long and favorably known in this town. He has plenty of money. She was a royal spender herself, both while here and in Los Angeles before she came north. She was vouched for financially by one of the banks and her checks were unquestioned at the hotel. Her other admirers still feel a little lonesome over her absence. They vote her a "good fellow" and a rare combination of artlessness and self-possession. The hotel people deemed her proper—but mysterious.

Soda Fountain as a Bait

The druggists in state convention here the other day discussed the soda water fountain as a bait to catch customers. Many considered it not worth the game, but representatives from the interior towns said it fulfilled its mission during the warm months. The consensus of opinion was to the effect that for luring people into the apothecary shop it was fickle as a perennial factor compared with the prosaic city directory, the voluble telephone and the humble but effective stamp for letters. Many is the person in need of a stamp right on the moment who rushes to the pill maker to have his want satisfied. This man

The Plea for Blood Money.

For the members of the Oakland City Council who are opposed to having a safe and sane Fourth of July there will be a melancholy interest in reading the casualty list that will be published the day after the celebration. Some idea of the incidents they are likely to find chronicled is disclosed in the following tabulation of Fourth of July casualties occurring in recent years:

Year.	Dead.	Wounded.	Total.	Tetanus.
1905	163	5460	5623	35
1907	164	5249	5413	62
1908	158	5308	5466	75
1909	182	5994	6176	81
1904	183	5986	6169	91
1903	466	3393	4449	406
	1316	27,980	29,296	776

In 1909 215 boys and girls were killed and between 5000 and 6000 injured—forty-one lost a leg, an arm, or a hand; thirty-six lost one eye and sixteen lost both eyes.

A splendid harvest, indeed, for a glorious anniversary! This is the tribute that the profit from the sale of fireworks exacts. Contemplation of the figures will doubtless strengthen self-approval of a righteous deed done from righteous motives.

Don't interfere with!

No, indeed! What are the lives and limbs of children compared to the profits a few men will make from the sale of fireworks? Why should any one care for the safety of the town from fire if there is a dollar or two to be made? A few funerals will make business for the undertakers, anyhow. Grief and tears don't count. Children are so numerous that it doesn't matter if a few get killed or crippled.

But what do mothers and fathers think of it? Perhaps the danger of their little ones being killed or maimed has no terrors for them. If sorrow comes into the household they will have the satisfaction of knowing that somehow made a profit by selling the instrument of destruction.

Don't hurt business!

Nay, let business go on, even if the town should burn down and affliction visit a hundred homes. Life is cheap and there is profit in business. What if there be blood and tears on the profit—it will fatten a bank account and give peace to an uneasy conscience.

Still the largest and most responsible business firms in Oakland do not take that view of it. They believe in fostering legitimate trade, but they are for the American boy and girl first of all. They believe in protecting children from all unnecessary danger and property from needless exposure to fire. They are the real merchants of this city. The petition to the Council asking the passage of the ordinance forbidding the indiscriminate discharge of fireworks in the streets is signed by every leader in the mercantile and financial life in the city.

"But it will hurt business," we hear it said. Then the story of every calamity due to the fireworks mania should be headed: "It helps business."

Growth of Urban Population.

Unless all signs fail the new census will reveal a continued drift of population to the cities and larger towns. There are indications that many large rural districts will show a considerable decrease in population since the previous census was taken. In States like New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio the increase is confined wholly to the cities. In Iowa the rural population has actually declined. It has decreased rather than otherwise throughout New England. In the Southern States the drift to the cities is more pronounced than at any previous time in our history. California is the second State in size in the Union, but approximately one-half the inhabitants dwell in six cities—San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland, Sacramento, San Diego and San Jose. Besides this, there are several other considerable cities in California—Berkeley, Stockton, Alameda, Fresno, Eureka, Bakersfield, Pasadena and San Bernardino. When the inhabitants of all towns of 5000 and over are subtracted from the whole number it will be seen that the rural population is a minor element. The construction of good roads and better facilities for rapid transit, and cutting up the great landed estates into small farms have started a return movement to the soil, but it is hardly appreciable in view of the tremendous rush to the cities. The desire to live in town seems to override all other considerations.

We suggest that John D. Rockefeller Jr. can do something for humanity by persuading John D. S. to do something for the white slaves who are not soiled doves—not by endowing colleges and providing funds for scientific research but by lessening the toll he takes from millions of poor people.

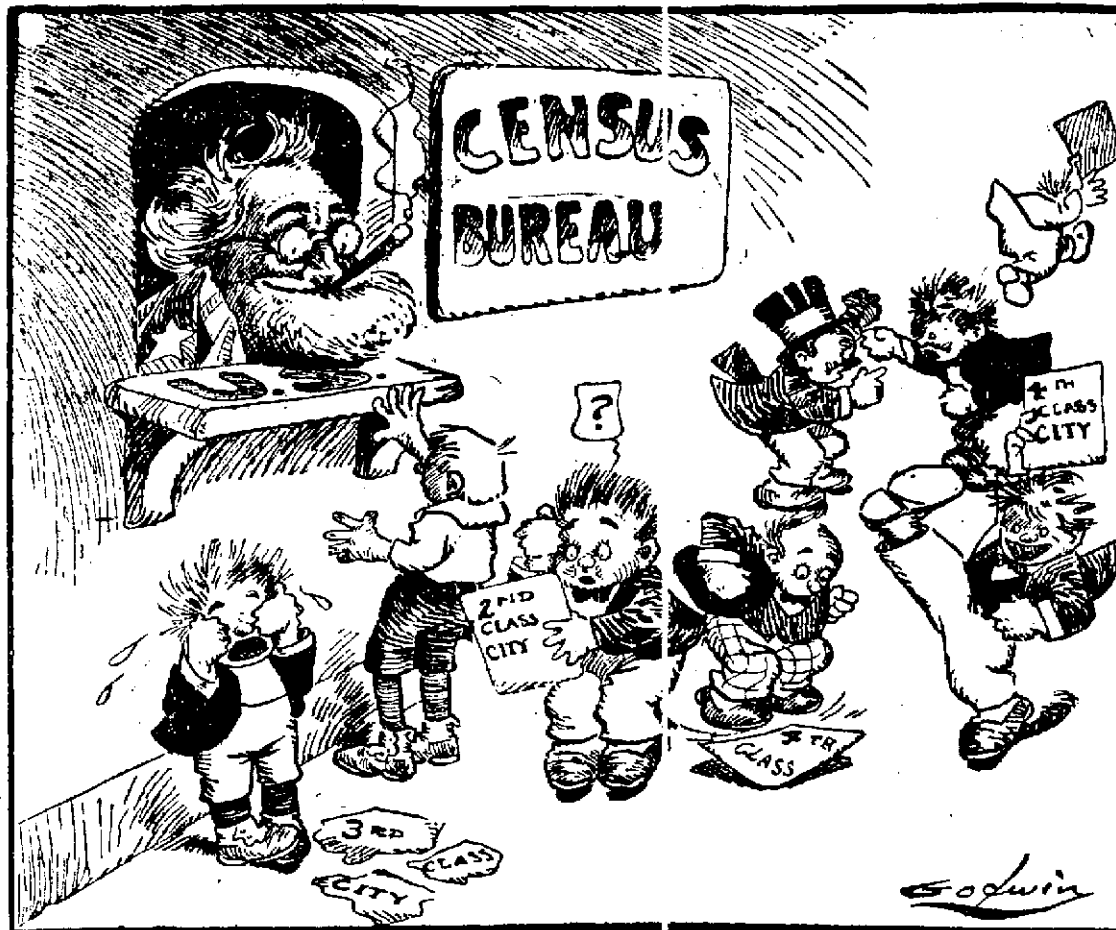

Every dirty slander the Bulletin has printed against San Francisco and every base libel sent abroad by the Spreckels-Phelan press bureau is now being circulated to prevent the Panama-Pacific Exposition coming to the Golden Gate. The religious press in the east has been seduced into giving currency to slanders on San Francisco and her people. Thus New Orleans is seeking to turn to her profit the filthy nothings of the journalistic Thersites San Francisco harbors. She uses the ammunition that Spreckels, Phelan, Heney, Older et al. have supplied. Hence San Francisco is being generously advertised as sunk in moral iniquity and infected with bubonic plague.

The San Francisco papers have from time to time savagely denounced Secretary Ballinger for all good hostility to the city and for unfairness in dealing with the Hetch-Hetchy matter. But the members of the delegation representing San Francisco at Washington do not corroborate their home papers. They declare that Secretary Ballinger has been fair and courteous in every respect. City Attorney Long, speaking in behalf of the delegation, gave this warm testimonial of good treatment at Washington:

"The thanks of San Francisco and of California are due to President Taft, Secretary Ballinger, Senator Flint and Assistant Attorney General Lawler for what they have done for us in connection with the Hetch-Hetchy matter. The President has been gracious and helpful, Secretary Ballinger has been anxiously careful of the rights of the city, the Assistant Attorney General has done everything possible to see that San Francisco lost no title of its rights, and Senator Flint has been a tower of strength and resourcefulness, and untiring in his efforts to help the city of San Francisco."

However, it is probable that in a few days the San Francisco papers will resume their bombardment of the Secretary of the Interior. The habit of denouncing any and everybody they are in disagreement with for the moment as a liar and a horse-thief is so fixed that it is hard to break off. The epithets and charges they hurl at each other as a playful pastime they discharge at others as a mere matter of course. Not taking their own assertions seriously, they scarcely expect to be taken seriously by others.

"Rock of Ages"—By A. M. Toplady

Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee;
Let the water and the blood,
From thy riven side which flowed,
Be of sin the double cure,
Cleanse me from its guilt and power.

Not the labors of my hands,
Can fulfill Thy law's demands;
Could my zeal no reprieve know,
Could my tears forever flow,
All for sin could not atone;
Thou must save, and Thou alone.

Nothing in my hand I bring,
Simply to Thy cross I cling;
Naked come to Thee for dress,
Helpless, look to Thee for grace;
Fool, I to the fountain fly;
Wash me, savior, or I die.

While I draw this fleeting breath,
When my eyelids close in death,
When I soar to worlds unknown,
See Thee on Thy judgment throne,
Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee.

—Augustus M. Toplady, 1776.

In August, 1756, a layman named Morris was preaching in a barn at Cadyman, Ireland. Among his auditors was Augustus M. Toplady, author of "Rock of Ages," then a lad of 16 years, who was in that country from England on a mission for the recovery of an estate for his mother, a widow. His father, Major Richard Toplady, had died at the siege of Carthagena soon after his son's birth at Farnham, Surrey, November 4, 1740. Young Toplady was deeply convicted of sin at this barn meeting, and thus was shaped his succeeding career. He himself refers to this important episode of his life in these words:

"Strange that I, who had so long sat under the means of grace in England, should be brought near to God in an obscure part of Ireland, amidst a handful of God's people, met together in a barn, and under the ministry of one who could hardly spell his name. . . . The excellency of such power must be of God, and cannot be of man."

He reaffirmed this statement not long before his death, and declared that he had been influenced by "Mr. John Wesley or any preacher connected with him," despite their deeply religious characters, and the spirituality of their natures, a very harsh feeling toward each other existed between Wesley and Toplady. In some measure this was no doubt due to the fact that Toplady had tinkered the hymns of the Wesley brothers, and John Wesley had tinkered the hymns of Toplady and others.

Wesley was bitterly resentful of any hymn writer's work on the Wesleyan productions. He wrote that he and his brother Charles did not wish to be "accountable for the nonsense or for the doggerel (sic) of other men." Among these "other men" was Toplady. They engaged in a very warm printed controversy. Toplady called Wesley "Pope John," said he "hatched blasphemous" and had written "a known, wilful and palpable lie to the public." Wesley wrote thus to Mr. Merryweather in 1770:

"Mr. Augustus Toplady I know well; but I do not fight with chimney sweepers. He is too dirty a writer for me to meddle with. I should only foul my fingers."

Hot stuff! Wesley added, moreover, that Toplady was a "lively coxcomb," concluding with some further epithets which made up in force what they lacked in politeness. Toplady was editor of the "Gospel Magazine" in 1777, when in one of its issues appeared, side by side, Stocker's noble hymn, "Gracious Spirit, Love Divine," and a satirical anonymous poem entitled "The Serpent and the Fox, or an Interview Between Old Nic and Old John" (Wesley). The verses of this satire were so scurrilous that Tysman, the biographer of Wesley, declared it would be a crime to reprint them. But Toplady gave them space in the paper he controlled. There is no such uncharitableness in these days. Still in the face of such personal animosities, and indeed at the very period of their most active eruptions, Toplady wrote "Rock of Ages," and John Wesley, albeit not much of a hymn writer himself, had translated into English Tersteegen's immortal hymn beginning:

"O how to whose all-searching sight
The darkness shineth as the light."

Alas for human imperfections of the sons of grace! Even the Godliest of men will sometimes forget their Godliness.

Toplady entered the ministry in 1762, being ordained a Trinity church, Dublin. He preached in Somersetshire, in Devonshire and in London. In Devonshire he composed the hymns by which he will be remembered. In 1776 he published a collection of 419 original and selected psalms and hymns, which he altered and amended to suit himself. Two years later, August 1, 1778, when but 35 years old, he died of consumption. When death was very near he frequently called himself "the happiest man in the world."

"Stokers," he said, "is no affliction, pain no curse, death itself no dissolution."

Thousands of persons attended the funeral services conducted by Rowland Hill in Tottenham Court chapel. Toplady's deathbed scene recalls Spurgeon's advice to his students:

"Be true to deathbeds. They are illuminated books. I have heard humble men and women, in their departing hours, talk as though they were inspired, uttering strange words aglow with supernatural glory. These they learned from no lips beneath the moon. They must have heard them while sitting in the suburbs of the New Jerusalem. God whispers in their ears amid their pain and weakness and then they tell us a little of what the Spirit has revealed."

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF EUROPE

Lord Kitchener and General French have this much in common—that they are both models of tactfulness. Perhaps the latter's character may best be suggested by the remark of a "Tommy" whom he had sentenced, with commendable brevity, to fourteen days' "cell." "Old French," quoth Tommy, "don't bark a bit; but, crickey, don't he bloomin' well bite!" General French began life in the navy at the age of 14, which perhaps accounts for the fact that he was preeminently the "handy man" of the South African campaign. General French's rise has been a speedy one. He was born fifty-eight years ago, was a captain at 18, and a major at 21.

The trouble in the Far East naturally recalls the Boxer rebellion in 1900, and the manner in which Sir Claude Macdonald, our Ambassador at Tokio, who was then the British representative at Peking, held the Legation. It was a trying situation, but Sir Claude has a knack of getting out of tight corners. He confesses, however, that one of the tighes in which he was in was when he visited the city of Korin, in Nigeria, as inspector under the Niger Company. His attractive personality so impressed two native princesses that they mentioned their willingness to marry him. Sir Claude got out of it by declaring that the law of his country on'y allowed him to have one wife, and he would not insult either by preferring the other.

Popularly known as the "Biscuit Baronet," one of the most enterprising and generous business men of our time has passed away in the person of Sir Walter Palmer, who died recently. The third son of one of the founders of Messrs. Huntley and Palmers, the famous biscuit-makers of Reading, Sir Walter was beloved by all who knew him. He was possessed of vast wealth, and was a physical scientist of considerable repute. For many years he was chairman of the council of Reading University College and a member of the Senate of London University. Besides being a director of the famous biscuit firm, which now employs 6000 hands, Sir Walter devoted great attention to agricultural subjects, and is the author of a book on "Poultry Farming," which has been translated into several European languages.

Advocate War Against Flies

St. Louis Republic: "The common fly is charged with being one of the most malign of agencies in spreading plant diseases. The indictment against it is, accordingly, lengthening. It is the English sparrow of the insect world, of no good to anybody and of much evil. Farmers may well devote to its destruction the energy now devoted to war on robins and other birds of benign intentions."

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER.

Milwaukee Sentinel: "One let the housewife fully sense the significance of the fact that 95 per cent of the flies are bred in the stable, that the insect is by nature a frequenter of sewers, stagnant lakes and all kinds of filth, and she will not look on with such apathy when it walks over the food on the table or crawls over the face and hands of the baby."

PREVENTION BETTER.

Florida Times-Union: "The wise housekeeper screens her house at the beginning of the season, since she realizes that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

BEST WAY TO FIGHT THE PEST.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: "The favorite breeding places of flies are in piles of rubbish and in barn refuse. The best way to fight the pest is to eliminate dirt. Keep the garbage cans cleaned and covered. Do not allow rubbish and dirt to accumulate. Keep your house and yard, your store or factory scrupulously clean. In that way the number of flies will be reduced to a minimum, which will mean a lessening of the number of victims of contagion. It may mean life and death to you or one of your family or friends. It is a small thing for each one to do, so small that no one can afford to be negligent."

Chicago Tribune: "Flies should be kept out of sick rooms. This should be an imperative rule. Uncooked food should be screened, and a vessel containing milk should always be covered. Don't buy food of stores which keep fruit and other articles unscreened. There are many fly killing articles sold, but most of them have drawbacks which make them objectionable. A five to eight per cent solution of formaldehyde with a little sugar in it is a cheap and convenient destructive agent. Do not relax your vigilance. Use every precaution. Prevent their coming if you can, but get rid of them if you can't."

NO EXCUSE FOR FLIES.

Indianapolis News: "There is really no excuse for the house fly. There should be no such thing, and if the anti-fly campaign is properly waged either there will be no flies or they will be so few that human protection against them will not be difficult."

CAN BE EXTERMINATED.

Springfield State Journal: "Extermination of the fly may look like an impossible task, but it is not. The South's experience in getting rid of the disease carrying mosquito proves that. Look at what was accomplished at New Orleans and take courage. Reflect on the regeneration of Cuba's filthy cities and admit that such things are possible. Consider the canal zone and then determine that Springfield can do what has been done in Panama. Co-operation will accomplish the work."

IS A DEADLY PEST.

Cincinnati Times-Star: "The fly is not the harmless nuisance that he was supposed to be ten years ago. Sanitarians now recognize him as a deadly pest, and have renamed him the 'typhoid fly.'"

Kerby and His Testimony

(From A. Maurice Low's Washington Dispatch to the Boston Globe.)

Kerby appeared to enjoy the notoriety that has in 48 hours lifted him out of the obscurity of a Government stenographer to a national character. He is a young man who has seemingly supreme confidence in himself. Questions put by members of the committee did not embarrass him, and he had ready answers for his inquisitors. But although Kerby handled himself with a great deal of address he did not make a good impression upon the committee or a majority of the people in the committee room. He tried to escape from the charge of betraying confidential information and treachery to his official superior by expressing a devotion to public interests, and he talked glibly about what he considered to be his "public duty."

Persons who heard Kerby testify are in doubt whether he is simply a notoriety seeker, who was carried away by his own importance and what he considered to be his "duty," or whether he had been used by more cunning and unscrupulous men to carry out their schemes. The general opinion is that Kerby has been made a tool of, that his vanity was played upon and that he easily fell into the scheme that was prepared for him.

At the same time Kerby, with all his high sense of duty and the responsibility which he appears to have accepted to protect the rights of the public, was cunning enough not to risk the chance of martyrdom until he knew that the martyr's crown would not press too heavily upon him. Kerby knew, to use his own language, that he would be "fired" as soon as he made his attack upon Secretary Ballinger, but he wasn't going to take any excessive risks. Ex-Secretary of the Interior Garfield, if Kerby can be relied upon, gave a hint to a Cleveland newspaper syndicate that Kerby, the confidential stenographer to the Secretary of the Interior, had some official secrets to reveal that would make sensational reading. The syndicate sent men to Washington to worm the secrets out of Kerby. Kerby said if he revealed them he would be "fired," whereupon he was promised a job. Then Mr. Kerby of the troubled conscience told what he knew. Senator Sutherland suggested that Mr. Kerby was a "notorious liar," inasmuch as he took good care to see where he was going to land before he took the plunge. But Mr. Kerby brushed such suggestions aside.

Kerby, after all, is a milk fry. The man who seems to have pulled the wires is Mr. Garfield, ex-Secretary of the Interior. Just exactly where this investigation leaves him is not easy to tell. A Senator, who is a member of the investigating committee, said today that if he can influence the committee, no matter what else it may do in making up its report, he will endeavor to have the committee go on record as expressing its high disapproval of Mr. Garfield's action in encouraging a clerk in the office of which he was once chief to betray confidential secrets.

The chief satisfaction of trying to do a thing you don't want to is how sure you are to prove you couldn't. Marry for money, then see if you can get any of it to spend.

Plans for Public Buildings and Water Front Improvements Affect Realty

MUNICIPAL BUILDINGS AND WORK

Getting Ready for the Waterfront Improvements That Will Add to Values

At its last regular meeting the council accepted the only bid that was submitted for $1,760,000 of the $2,508,000 of the bond issue authorized by the people for a new city hall and fire alarm and police telegraph building and wharf improvements on the southern and western water fronts. Under the terms of the bid the purchasers pay the city a bonus of $1100 and waive the interest accruing on the bonds between the time of the acceptance of the bid and the fall for the cashing of the bonds.

The interest which realty men have in the transaction is that it places the Oakland Harbor Commission and the Board of Public Works in a position whereby they can proceed with the public improvements at will. Presumptively the bonds will be issued and cashed when contracts are awarded for the work, which they cover to avoid any possibility of default in payments when they become due.

Weighty Bearing On Realty Values

The carrying out of the proposed public works has a weighty bearing on property values and on prospective trading in realty directly affected by actual construction. The income derived from the sale of these bonds will be devoted to the redemption of the options obtained on south side property between Broadway and Myrtle streets contiguous to the seawall and necessary to make the wharves constructed available to shipping and accessible to railroad tracks and street extensions; to the construction of one section of the seawall; to the construction of a permanent wharf at the foot of Livingston street, East Oakland; to the erection of a building for the police and fire alarm telegraph department; and the purchase of additional property adjoining that now owned by the municipality on Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets for the enlargement of the new city hall site.

Municipal Buildings To Be Erected

Of the two municipal structures to be erected, the first to be built will of necessity be the structure in which the police and fire alarm telegraph will be quartered. This structure will have to be built without delay as the building now occupied by the telegraph department must be razed to make room for the new city hall. Tentative plans have been drawn of the building by Architect Walter J. Mathews and these are now being considered by the Board of Public Works and in all probability will be adopted as the city electrician declares that they provide for the handiest building devoted to similar purposes to be found in the country.

Park Building Design Adopted

Mr. Mathews has adapted the form of the structure to the three corner tract at the northeast corner of Oak and Thirteenth streets, which is part of the Lak Shore park lands and which has been selected by the Board of Public Works and the Park Commission as the site of the building. The architect has also drawn the plans on a scale to meet the future growth of Oakland. It is, moreover, designed as a park building and strictly in conformity with the general plans adopted for park structures. It will be strictly fire proof and the walls will be constructed of Manti, Utah, limestone. This stone makes a beautiful exterior, as is shown in the Farmers and Merchants Savings Bank building at the southeast corner of Franklin and Thirteenth streets.

All of these public works will have a weighty bearing on realty values over large sections of the city adjacent to them. The Livingston street pier will accommodate the industries around Twenty-third avenue and Fruitvale and will undoubtedly induce other industrial enterprises to locate in that neighborhood. For one of the essentials of success to manufacturing is availability to water and rail transportation. The seawall construction will set realty values in motion all along the south side from the north arm of the estuary to Myrtle street between Seventh street, and starting the commercial improvements on the western water front will bring that territory conspicuously to the front for warehouse and manufacturing sites.

The erection of the two big public buildings, particularly the new city hall, will have a tremendous influence on property within an extensive radius, for it construction will fix the civic and business center of the city for many years to come and possibly for all time.

SALES OF LAND AT SAN LEANDRO

Andrew Whitton of San Leandro reports the following sales during the past week: John S. Lally has purchased five acres on the Staten tract No. 1, and he is now improving it with a new five-room cottage, barn, etc. E. S. Bartel of Berkeley has purchased six acres in the same tract and intends making his home there in the near future. H. Haas, a San Francisco business man, has bought two acres in the new Castro Valley tract and intends improving the place as soon as possible and making it his home.

ROCKRIDGE PLACE OPENING JUNE 4

Making Roads and Constructing Sewers Throughout the New Tract.

The opening of Rockridge Place has been postponed one week, and will be on Saturday and Sunday, June 4 and 5, instead of today and tomorrow, as originally announced. This change of date is due to an untimely delay in the work of getting the tract in shape for the opening sale.

In speaking of this second Rockridge property about to be placed on the market, Fred E. Reed, subdivision manager for the Layman Real Estate Company, said: "We are anxious that Rockridge Place will be the finest piece of residential property in California when completed. Because of this we would rather wait all summer before placing it on sale than sell it in a rough state and let the people out when it was in a rough state and let them carry away wrong impressions of the tract."

COLONIAL HOME ON KILLEGASS AVE

Seventeen-room Structure Is Being Built in Berkeley for G. W. Howard.

G. W. Howard of Berkeley has just started work on a colonial residence of seventeen rooms, a perspective drawing of which is pictured today. Mr. Howard's lot is on foot wide and is on the east side of Killegass avenue, just north of Parker street, Berkeley. On the first floor will be the living room, dining room, reception hall, office, library, breakfast room, kitchen and servants' quarters. The living room is 18 feet by 30 feet, and contains a large open fireplace of fire tile, with a cozy seat on each side. The base is two feet high and a picture molding is run around this. The entire lower floor, with the exception of the kitchen and the servants' quarters, is finished in quarter-sawn oak. The dining room is 12 feet by 18 feet, and is paneled 5 feet 6 inches up with large quarter-sawn oak panels. Over the mantel is a plate shelf, and the ceiling is beamed with heavy oak. On the second floor are four bedrooms, a study, a bathroom and bath. In the basement there will be a billiard room finished with board and batten. The exterior of the building is to be finished with cement and treated in a

BRISK TRADING IN OAKLAND REALTY

Charles E. Hughes reports that his total sales during the past sixty days amount to $260,000. He says:

"William Dwyer, from Alameda, Canada, recently purchased the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Linden streets from the Southern Pacific for about $15,000. I was informed as to the time of making the purchase that he had thoroughly investigated property in both Berkeley and Oakland with a view to buying and had bought Oakland offered more and had the best opportunity for investment of any city in the state. Mr. Dwyer owned this property less than sixty days when it was disposed of by us to William S. Van Housen of Hayward in a trade for thirty-six acres of land near the latter place, estimated to be worth $24,000."

Millionaire Counts Money Incorrectly

LEDWOOD CITY, May 28.—Although Loren Cohn, a millionaire in real estate, is being determined by Superior Judge Maurice Dooley, and difficulty in counting $24 in coin and in making change during an examination occupying more than four hours is enumerated his vast properties and told their market value.

Loren Cohn showed astonishment when told by the court that he had not counted correctly. He asked: "But I didn't make a mistake against myself?" The Pasadena millionaire appeared worried when informed that he had

OAKLAND'S WHOLESALE DISTRICT

East of Broadway and South of 13th Street Gradually Changing in Character

Some months ago THE TRIBUNE reported the purchase by the Crane company of the northeast corner of Webster and Ninth streets, 100 feet on Webster and 110 feet on Ninth, for $36,000, and their intention to erect a five-story class A building on the lot. Although the transaction was closed at the time the announcement of it was made in THE TRIBUNE, the deed to the property from Abbie J. Fleming and others to the Crane Company was not made until last Monday, and it was recorded on Tuesday.

The plans and specifications for the new building have been in the course of preparation by Chicago architects in the meantime and as soon as they are completed work will be started on the structure.

The Crane Company is one of the largest wholesale corporations in the United States dealing in plumbers' supplies. It has establishments in many cities throughout the country. Since the San Francisco earthquake and conflagration the company has been quartered in leased premises on the southeast corner of Thirteenth and Webster streets. Its intention to erect a five-story class A building for its own use exclusively is an exhibition of its faith in Oakland's future growth and of its own intention to largely expand its business here.

The property bought from Mrs. Fleming and others is a paved lot. Shortly after the San Francisco disaster it was leased for ten years by a Chinese capitalist, who planned to erect a three-story block on it; but when he applied for a permit from the Board of Public Works he made the discovery that the lot was located within the fire limits and that he would have to put up a brick structure on that account. The rejection of his application resulted in the surrender of the lease. As matters have turned out, the abandonment of the property by the Chinese has been a fortunate thing for Oakland, as it assures the ultimate absorption of Webster street by the wholesale trade.

Ideal District For Wholesaling

It grows more evident as time progresses that the territory east of Broadway and south of Thirteenth street is destined to be the wholesale district of Oakland. Many wholesale firms are already permanently located in it, and it adapts itself to the changes necessary to accommodate the wants of wholesalers more readily than other parts of the city because there is practically no sacrifice made in the removal of the improvements now occupying the land to make room for permanent structures. Moreover, the price of realty in the district is low, notwithstanding the big increase in values which has taken place within it during the last four years. It is also a short haul from the commercial water-front and the railroads and convenient to the manufacturing and the central retail districts. It is thus an ideal district for the wholesale trade, for shipping by rail or by water and quick and economical delivery to the retailers.

OPENING SALE OF TOLER HEIGHTS

New Tract Is Located Near Elmhurst—Many Buyers at First Day's Offering.

A big achievement in the sale of residential property was made last Sunday by Davidson & Tinsford in their opening sale of Toler Heights, the new private park tract on the scenic boulevard just north of Elmhurst.

This sale, the largest recorded in the real estate market for years, is but another proof of the remarkable strides Oakland is making in the development of her residential sections.

Fronting 500 feet with curves away from the boulevard and gradually reaching the higher elevations of the tract, where are located building spots 35x70 to 100x200 ft. commands a splendid view of the semi-tropical picture in the foreground, bordered by Oakland and the bay beyond.

Mr. Henderson, when he viewed the fine part of the work, enthusiastically described Toler Heights as "a man's property selling for considerably less than is usually charged for poor man's land," he continued, "our minimum price of $8 a foot for this high class property is less by 40 per cent than the present price of lowland property occupied by a heterogeneous class and unattractively improved."

Four hundred restrictions forever protect the high character of the property, insuring a landscape on the map of modest means and assuring purchasers of this property that no temporary shacks and unattractive homes will be erected.

"We had a little difficulty in handling the crowd that visited the property last Sunday. While we anticipated a great many visitors, the response to our announcement was greater by far than we ever expected, and for this Sunday we have made arrangements for an extra large force of men to have the callers over the property. We have also secured several automobiles to augment our transportation facilities for showing our prospective purchasers the property in its entirety, for the six to eight mile walking and driving tour is a hard-slip on ladies and children."

Charles E. Hughes reports that his total sales during the past sixty days amount to $260,000. He says: "William Dwyer, from Alameda, Canada, recently purchased the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Linden streets from the Southern Pacific for about $15,000. I was informed as to the time of making the purchase that he had thoroughly investigated property in both Berkeley and Oakland with a view to buying and had bought Oakland offered more and had the best opportunity for investment of any city in the state. Mr. Dwyer owned this property less than sixty days when it was disposed of by us to William S. Van Housen of Hayward in a trade for thirty-six acres of land near the latter place, estimated to be worth $24,000."

George B. Robbins of the firm of Russell Bros., San Francisco, a beautiful home on Fifty-third street, terms cash, but price is reserved. Albert W. Leedy, a new and modern home in the south side of Monte Vista avenue, near Delmont station, for $15,000 cash.

Colonial manner with the classic orders and yellow pressed brick forming a heavy base for the house. The roof is to be slate and will have a large chimney to light the attic rooms. At the rear of the lot there will be a garage large enough to accommodate two machines.

Slaney B. Newsum is the architect.

BRIAND'S TRIUMPH PUTS HIM IN A NEW LIGHT

The Election Gives Work to Biographers and Reputation to Appraisers.

ANARCHISTS CLASH IN MONTMARTRE STREET

Bullets Fly Fast and One Is Wounded—Justice
Miscarries.

(By GEORGE DUFRESNE.)

PARIS, May 28.—M. Briand's triumph at the polls has given work to the biographers and the appraisers of political reputations. The Premier appears to them in a totally different light than was the case in the days when he was simply a minister. There is a general consensus of opinion that he is proving himself the strong man of France—that he occupies the place which M. Clemenceau filled in the popular imagination. Power has had a fortifying effect on M. Briand. He is a changed man. He appears to live for his office alone, his main ambition being to discharge the duties of his position satisfactorily.

It has been remarked that since he became Premier, M. Briand has severed himself to some extent from social life. It is all work with him now. He goes to bed early, and is at work by 8 o'clock in the morning, reading reports and attending to dispatches which arrive during the night. He takes care to read all the newspaper articles concerning his government. His callers are many, and he has a tactful way of dealing with them.

ANARCHISTS CLASH

A street in Montmartre was the scene of a desperate conflict between two sections of Anarchists early yesterday morning. In a house in the Rue du Chevalier-de-la-Barre are an Anarchist printing and the headquarters of an Anarchist body, who hold "Causeries Populaires." At 5 o'clock in the morning M. Paraf-Javal, a revolutionary orator and writer, was helping ten young men who were dragging two handcars. The latter had recently separated from the "Causeries Populaires" and formed a rival Anarchist group in the Rue Blomet, and their intention was to remove the furniture from the Rue du Chevalier-de-la-Barre.

M. Paraf-Javal knocked at the door. It was immediately opened by three Anarchists, who fired revolvers at their former comrades. One of the latter was wounded, and had to be treated in a chemist's shop. The rest beat a retreat, pursued by the men with revolvers. Realizing that they were in danger, two of the dissident Anarchists took refuge in a lavatory. Shots were fired through the keyhole, and the cries uttered told the pursuing Anarchists that their bullets had done mischief. One of the men was wounded in the arm and thigh, besides having his lung perforated. He was removed to the Lariboisiere Hospital in a grave condition. The police are now investigating the affair.

JUSTICE FAILURE

Public attention is being called to frequent instances of miscarriage of justice in France, and abolitionists of the death penalty find a strong argument in that fact. There appears to be very strong reasons for supposing that Briere, condemned to death some years ago for the murder of his five children, his sentence being commuted by M. Loubet to transportation for life, is an innocent man. It is not a newspaper idea, but the conviction of the officials at the penal settlement. The Appache who was sentenced to the guillotine this week declared that his act was one of revenge for having been falsely accused by the police.

There is still doubt as to the justice of the sentence inflicted on the butler, Renard, for the murder of his master, M. Remy.

INDIAN CASE BACK IN HIGHER COURT

Request Made That Court of Claims Be Forced to Obey Ruling.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—After an absence of four years the famous Cherokee Indian case, involving the distribution of more than $1,000,000 to those words of the nation, returned today to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Attorneys for Head Captain John McIntosh, Second Captain John McIntosh, and others today asked the Supreme Court to require the court of claims, to "do" the mandate of the Supreme Court in passing on the case four years ago.

At the time Attorney Sullivan and Tush claim the Supreme Court directed a distribution of the funds by the Court of Claims on a "per stirpes" basis. It is now contended that the Court of Claims has directed a distribution on a per capita basis.

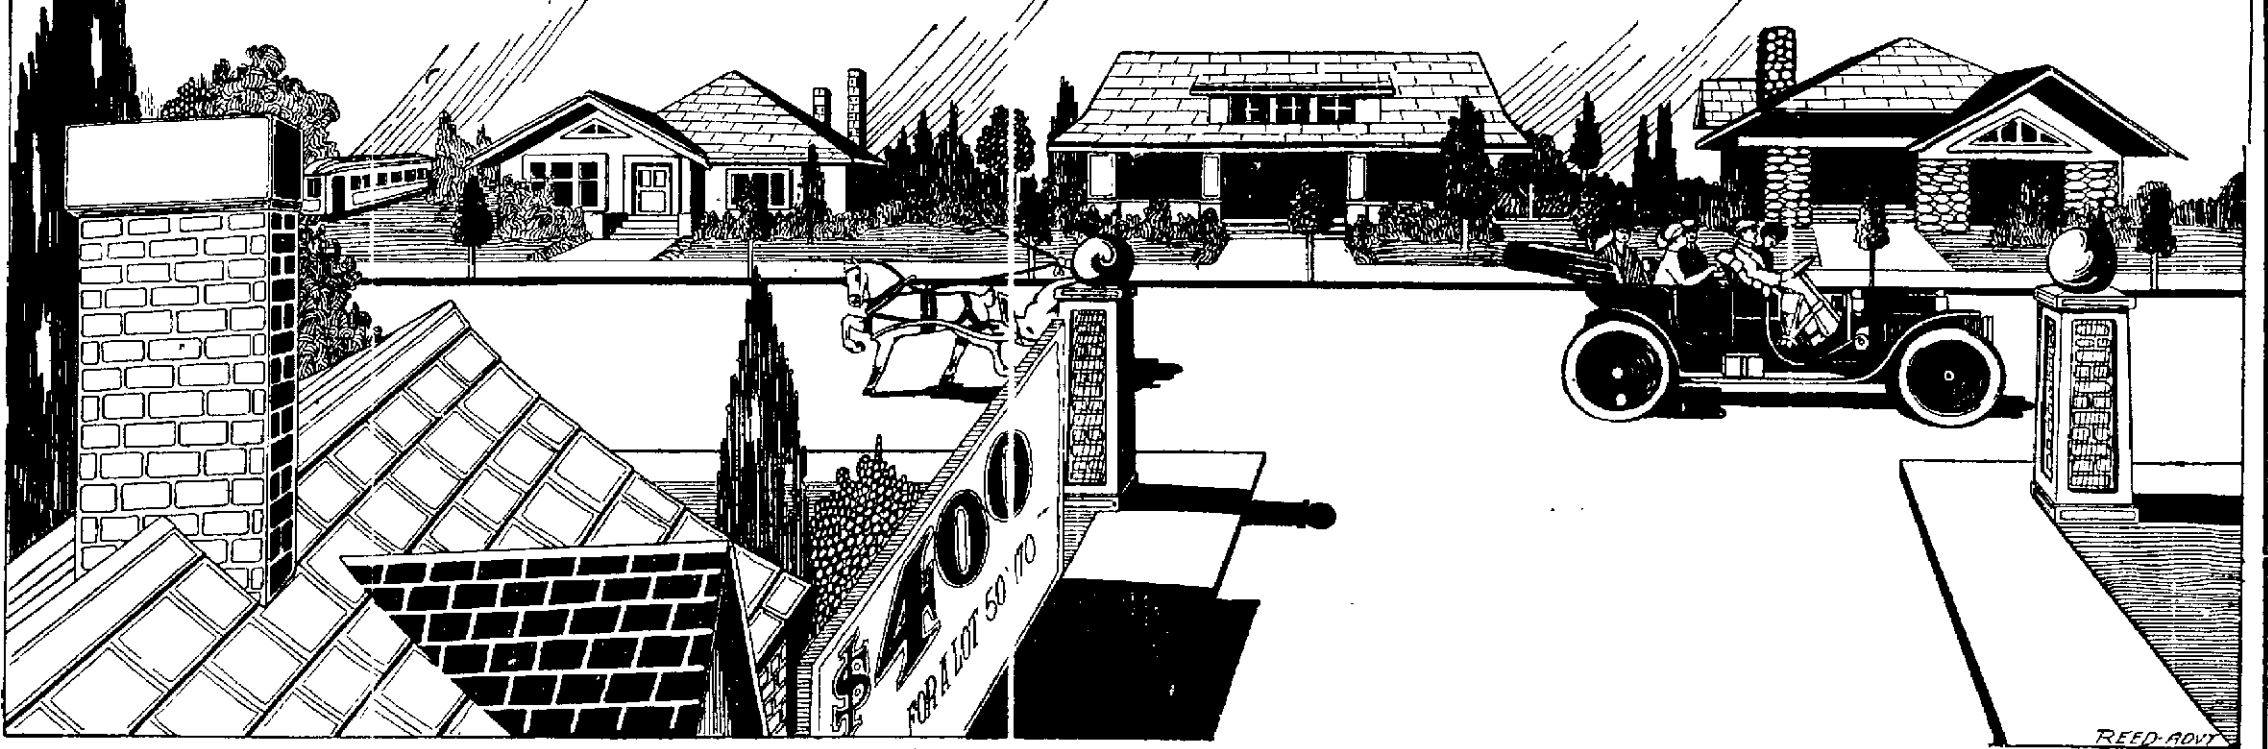

Another objection is made to the proceedings of the Court of Claims. It is maintained by the attorneys that the Supreme Court did not direct the court to have the 8 cents of the treaty prepare the roll of persons entitled to participate in the distribution.

Instead of following this mandate, it is claimed, a special commission was appointed by the court at great expense to prepare the roll. It is urged that this too, was disobedience to the mandate of the Supreme Court which is used to enforce his decree.

King's Civil List To Be Scrutinized

LONDON, May 28.—King George's Civil List—the sum voted by Parliament for the upkeep of the royal household and incidental expenses—will probably come under the scrutiny of a select committee of the Commons for the first time since the case of the accession of Edward VII, when a considerable increase was recommended over the sum allowed to Queen Victoria, whose royal household did not involve a large expenditure. On the other hand, graft exposures in the royal household, which have been pressed drastically under King Edward, were unwelcome to the old Queen.

Opportunity Is Here

We are writing on the theory that you are men and women seriously looking for an opportunity to make your savings WORK FOR YOU—that you are waiting for a speculative opening that is SAFER than a bank—an investment that is absolutely proof against loss—an investment that is absolutely sure to grow. To such a man or woman we emphatically state: "Your opportunity is here"—it is the opportunity that comes but once in a long time—an opportunity that is brought about by the retarded growth of congested residential section which has been awaiting the removal of an obstruction that prevented its growth.

¶ The obstruction is Toler Heights.

¶ Toler Heights has for years been held intact by its former owners, choking off and retarding the northern growth of our east bay residential section.

¶ We bought the property in its entirety—we bought it at a price that enables us to improve it in a superior manner and market it at a ridiculously low price.

¶ We bought Toler Heights because we realized the certainty of its future—we saw the beautiful homes built up to and almost completely surrounding the tract—we saw the Scenic Boulevard framing its entire southern side—we took in the beauty of the view and the excellence of the transportation facilities—we knew of the natural demand for lots in the tract, and after carefully considering many other points from the angle of successful real estate men we concluded that Toler Heights was THE OPPORTUNITY FOR US.

¶ Just as it was an opportunity for us, it is the one opportunity for SAFE INVESTMENT FOR YOU. Read on.

TOLER HEIGHTS

Offers the Ideal Residence Site. The Investment Opportunity of the Day. Fine Improvements
Gravel Streets, Sewers and Water Mains. $2000 Building Restrictions. Large Lots. 80-ft. Streets

¶ Much money has been made by shrewd men who invested in realty for business purposes. They made money because they saw the future demand for business locations in the section in which they invested.

¶ A certain element of chance existed, for business sections are "finicky" and apt to grow in any direction—but a residence section has got to keep on GOING; it CAN'T go back—its only outlet is ON.

¶ The element of chance does not, cannot, and never will apply to investments made in Toler Heights—the demand for property exists TODAY—this statement is proven by our sales of last Sunday of $100,000. EVERY investor in Toler Heights property is going to make money, but those who make the first selection before the most desirable sites are gone will make the most.

¶ Real estate to be profitable must be desirable as a residential section—it must be favored so that the desire to live there will move a man to ANY EXPENDITURE after the tract has reached its maximum development.

¶ Those who viewed Toler Heights last Sunday could NOT RESIST the desire to live on this beautiful hillside property. They saw the magnificent stretch of the Scenic Boulevard framing the southern side of the tract—they noted the eighty-foot avenues that gently curve around the hills to the higher elevations—they drank in the beauty of the view from Haywards to the Golden Gate—they became informed on the nearby school—the stores—the churches—and the transportation facilities—they saw a few hundred feet away the Southern Pacific electric extension now being rushed to completion—they studied the building restrictions, forever their protection against the deterioration of the property, and then after further consideration they made their deposits and went away feeling they had made the wisest move of their lives.

Room-Mate and $170 Disappear Together

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Albert Fisher, a machinist employed by P. C. Tibbet of San Leandro and residing at 21 Gough street, awoke this morning at 11:10 missing. His roommate, Alfred Wilson, had also disappeared and he had asked the police to aid him in locating him.

Frame Bill to Stop Physical Deterioration

LONDON, May 28.—To stem the alarming growth of physical deterioration in England (caused by the rush into congested and unhealthy city life) a bill has been framed for presentation to Parliament with the object of establishing a system of compulsory physical training for children. The bill seeks to secure "universal and continuous physical training for the youth of both sexes, in order to avert, as far as is possible by such means, the danger of physical deterioration."

All school authorities are to provide physical training for both sexes for at least two hours each week, the instruction to be imparted by properly qualified persons. The training must be continued until the children reach the age of sixteen.

Late King's Country Home Is Neglected

LONDON, May 28.—Sandringham House, the country home of King Edward, is likely to be quite neglected, or even pass into strangers' hands, under the new reign. The place was not a royal residence, but the King's private property, and it remains to be seen what disposition he made of it in his will. The new Queen is not very fond of Sandringham, her house on the estate, York Cottage, being little more than a cottage, and she has spent very little of her time there since she has had Marlborough House for a home. It is probable that the Queen Mother Alexandra will retire to seclusion at Sandringham, and there end her days. After her death, there is no knowing what will become of the place so long and closely associated with the domestic life of Edward VII.

Charge Secretary With Taking Bribe

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., May 28.—In a complaint filed in a Justice court here yesterday, by District Attorney J. E. Ferguson, C. E. Hagar, former Secretary of the State Board of Charities and Corrections is charged with having taken a bribe of $100 for using his influence to obtain the pardon of Samuel Hines, a convict in the state penitentiary at Canon City. The complaint is sworn to by John F. Wright, a business man of Cripple Creek.

FORM CURRY CLUB

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Petitions are being circulated for the formation of a Charles F. Curry, Riggers and Stevedores' Club. Many of the riggers and stevedores have signed the petitions and pledged themselves to support Curry for Governor.
